LIVING OUT CHRISTIAN VALUES - MAKING PASTORAL CARE AMONG HARD OF HEARING SO IMPORTANT

IVSS Churchear Conference 2022 in Eisenach, Germany
5th–9th September

Haus Hainstein

IVSS Churchear invites you to a thrilling conference with interesting lecturers and exciting encounters. Our conference theme this time is: “Living out Christian values – making Pastoral Care among Hard of Hearing so important”

We shall listen to the German Dr. Theol. Christian Wolf speaking about Christian values in church, politics and culture. The Swedish acoustic company LN Akustik-miljö AB will tell us more about the importance of good acoustics in churches and parish buildings. Coach and audio therapist Jana Verheyen from Germany will speak about the possibilities of communication with hard of hearing. There will be workshops as well, giving us the opportunity to exchange our experiences, learn from each other and get a renewed inspiration for our daily work.

And, not the least, we will come together with all our accumulated experience from being fellow wanderers together with hearing impaired members of our churches. Some of us are hard of hearing ourselves; others are hearing well. All of us have something to learn from each other. We therefore have, as always, emphasised on having time for encounters and exchange of experience. If you are not yet a member of IVSS Churchear, you are welcome to apply for a membership. And if you are simply curious wishing to attend our conference, you are most welcome as well. Together we can make the world a little better.

Hearing Consideration at the IVSS-Churchear conferences

All speakers will use microphones (in the conference hall and all other sites)

In the conference hall: Induction loop, loudspeakers and captioning in English and German.

Outside the conference hall: All conference attendants are offered to borrow an FM receiver, enabling you everywhere to receive the sound from the microphones through telecoil or headphones. There will even be mobile captioning in English (See picture further down).

Group conversation: Smaller groups may borrow a microphone transmitting the spoken sound to FM receivers mentioned above. This may be combined with induction loops as well as headphones, and on some occasions there may be English captioning as well (e.g. at dinner and workshops)

The picture to the left: A small group being shown around. The guide has a microphone transmitting the spoken sound to the borrowed FM receivers. Some have a carried induction loop (sound through the induction coil), while others use headphones (loudspeaker sound). In the front you see Ginny listening to the guide through headphones, captioning what he tells, on her computer which transmits the text to mobile screens available for borrowing (iPad). Thus you may even read what is said, when we are outside the conference hall as well. The text may also be received on your smartphone.
